In June 2021, the German Bundestag approved the German Supply Chain Act, which requires companies to observe human rights and certain environmental due diligence obligations in their supply chains. It will apply from 1 January 2023 for companies with at least 3,000 employees and from 1 January 2024 for companies with at least 1,000 employees.

In October 2022, the BAFA (The Federal Office for Economic Affairs and Export Control) published the long-anticipated catalogue of questions for reporting on the German Supply Chain Act. The document allows companies to check how they can fully comply with their reporting obligation.

Co-hosted by amfori and the German Partnership for Sustainable Textiles (PST), this webinar provides an overview of the obligations under the German Supply Chain Act. The German Governments' Helpdesk on Business and Human Rights will briefly introduce the BAFA's catalogue of questions and how companies can fulfil their reporting obligation under the law. The participants will then be invited to ask any questions that they may have about the reporting obligation under the German Supply Chain Act. amfori and the PST will further highlight how their tools can help companies in meeting their due diligence obligations.
